Backstory

Ulf is a father of two in Redmond, Washington. He's a computer whiz and loves Star Wars. His kids are in college now, and he likes to spend his extra free time programming, watching movies, and traveling the world. He doesn't like to be around people with negative energy (especially at work), but wears Star Wars t-shirts every day to spread infectious positivity. He wants to retire eventually to have even more time for programming projects and traveling, but is still working at Microsoft for now because he likes it so much.
